

10th International Conference

On

METHODOLOGIES OF ARABIC LANGUAGE TEACHING

@

Department of Arabic, University of Kerala, Kerala, India

(5 - 7 February 2018)

Teaching methodology plays an important role in transmitting knowledge and skills to learners. The effectiveness of both knowledge and skills depends greatly on the methodology used. Arabic belongs to community of Semitic Language and in the recent years there is a big leap in the number of persons who come forward to learn Arabic either on class room or on internet. The proposed conference will be focused on discussing the different methodologies adopted by the international institutes for teaching Arabic language and it will pave the way for students, researchers and teachers in India to interact with the Teachers and scholars working in these internationally recognized institutes.

The conference aims at:

- To provide chance for international experts in Arabic language teaching to introduce the methodologies adopted by their institutes
- To make collaborations with centres of excellence across the Globe in the field of student/ faculty/ research exchanges.
- To give the stakeholders the latest theories in teaching Arabic for non-native speakers, and to exchange ideas and experiences relating to this field.
- To enhance all serious initiatives in this field and even adopt them.
- To treat the obvious deficiency in providing the intellectual activities that deals specifically with teaching Arabic
- To train the faculty members in Indian Universities to design the curriculum for second language teaching (Arabic) as well as core subject
