About the National Seminar

Manuscriptology is one of the subjects where the divide between what is considered as 'traditional practice' and 'modern practice' is sharply felt. World over the practice of Manuscriptology has switched over to digital methods for the study, editing and conservation of Manuscripts. Manuscriptological practices in India in general remain in the traditional mode except for some digitization efforts. Unless the practitioners adopt digital methods for study, editing, cataloguing and conservation of Manuscripts, the broad aims of digitization will remain unfulfilled. In this context, we are conducting a three day National Seminar on Contemporary Practices in Manuscriptology. The beneficiaries: Research Scholars, Students, Teachers
